INDIAN SCOUTS RESCUE BODY OF HARRY BECK

Twenty-Three Minutes Is Required to Bring Body to Surface

FOUND NEAR WILMOT DAM

A ten day search on the part of residents for the body of Harry Beck, who was drowned when swept over the mill dam on October 7, being unsuccessful, Mr. Beck engaged the services of two Indians, John Jeremy and his helper, Indian Jack, who arrived here Tuesday morning. They were taken over the river thoroughly in the morning and in the afternoon they started actual work of grappling for the body. Within twenty-three minutes from the time they started, they recovered the body, in twelve feet of water, 20 feet below the dam on the east side. Their feat seemed marvelous, as from twenty to thirty men had been at work daily since the drowning with no results. This makes the nineteenth body Mr. Jeremy has recovered from the water this season.

The body was brought to shore and taken to the home, from where funeral services were held at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The body was taken to Kenoah for burial, services being in charge of the Kenoah Post of the American Legion.

Harry is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferd. Beck, three sisters, Mrs. Philip Meyers, Racine, Hazel and Violet, at home, and his grandmother, Mrs. Ganz.

A Narrow Escape

An added tragedy was narrowly averted Thursday when Ferdinand Beck, the father of the drowned boy, and John Mutz, Sr., were thrown into twelve feet of water when the row boat they were dragging with capsize in the center of the river near the Harley Davidson camp. Both men were good swimmers and when they came up managed to reach the capsized boat. Mr. Beck caught the bow and Mr. Mutz the stern and although the boat was half filled with water they managed to hang onto it and gradually swim with its aid to the shore and safety. Both men were untiring in their efforts to find the drowned boy and every morning at 5 o'clock found them out on the river at work.

Unclaimed Letters at the Local Postoffice

The following letters remain unclaimed at the Antioch postoffice on Monday, October 17:

Mr. and Mrs. F. Kutz.
Mr. Harry McDaniel.
Mrs. A. Riess.
Mrs. Harry J. Riess.
William Schmidt.
Mrs. Allan Thompson.

The dam at McHenry is nearly completed, the flash boards on the lower half have been removed and almost two feet of water is passing over the structure. The farmers on the north will now have no complaint as to high water if the dam level is maintained.

Much Rain

A rain fall of 1.55 inches was recorded in Monday's storm.

Beggars in Constantinople

And then the beggars! They are at every turn in Constantinople. For the most part, they are Armenians. They follow a person for great distances, whining and crying. Some of them carry deformed babies, probably rented, as it seems unlikely that every beggar could have a deformed child. Many make their children lie in the street on wet pavements and pretend to be asleep to excite the pity of the passerby and thus secure alms.

Prison Color Schemes

Color schemes, suggested by an expert as suitable for prisons, are pink for boy thieves, yellow for orange for convicts guilty of long-promediated crimes and violet and black for burglars. All cells should have blue ceilings and gray should be avoided.

Auction Sales for October

Tuesday, Oct. 25, will witness the auction sale to be held on the Frederick Leonard estate at Bristol, on the Wilmet road, 2 1/2 miles east of Bristol. H. L. Freeman will be the auctioneer and Edward F. Higgins, the clerk.

An auction sale of interest to the community will be that held at the farm owned by N. E. Jensen, known as the Levell farm, 1 mile east of Leola Lake and 3 miles southeast of Antioch. The sale will be held Tuesday, Oct. 25, at 12:30 sharp. L. J. Sloum will be the auctioneer and J. E. Brook, clerk.

The undersigned will sell an 80-acre farm and all personal property and household furniture at public auction on the farm one mile south of Rosecans on Saturday, Oct. 29, at 1 p. m. Mrs. Cella Henning, prop., L. J. Sloum, auctioneer.

RUSSELL GETS ACTION AT SPRINGFIELD

Charles E. Russell, county highway commissioner, returned Tuesday from Springfield where he had a conference with State Highway Commissioner Sheets. Mr. Russell was very much pleased with the result of the conference and stated that Mr. Sheets was favorable toward his plans of starting the cement road at the state line.

The present plans are for the county to fix the road from the Grand avenue road at Lake Villa to the Channel Lake road at Antioch with the exception of a little stretch at Lake Villa which included the overhead bridge and the state is to fix the road from the Channel Lake road to the state line.

Mr. Sheets expressed approval of the completion of this portion of the state road, Route 21, as early as possible this spring. It now lies with the town of Antioch to establish a right of way through the village to enable Mr. Russell to complete his plans for submission to the state highway for their final approval and asking for bids.

Long Lake Seeks to Be Village; to Have Election

Long Lake wants to become a village and on Monday in the county court Judge P. L. Persons received a petition with the requisite number of signatures and granted the prayer of the petitioners asking that they be permitted to incorporate.

Judge Persons set Nov. 12, as the date of a special election and appointed clerks and judges of election.

Long Lake is located in the extreme western part of this county, being on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, southeast of Fox Lake, in Grant township.

Plant Baas in Fox River

St. Charles, Ill.—Anglers along the Fox river are counting upon improved fishing, due to the activities of the state and federal fish commissions in stocking this stream with black bass. Many thousand of fish from the hatcheries were placed in the river.

Nutrition in Fruits

Fruits are chiefly valuable for their sugar, acids and salts. Bananas, dates, figs, prunes and grapes, owing to their large amount of sugar, are the most nutritious. Apples, lemons and oranges are valuable for their pectin, salts, and oranges and lemons, especially, are valuable for their citric acid. Some fruits contain two or more acids, such as strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and cherries. These fruits contain both citric and malic acids.

Sad Mistake

The family was away from town. Their house was in charge of a young maid. Occasionally an old woman came in to help with the cleaning. One day the maid opened the front door and was greeted by the angry woman. "I've been ringing and ringing and ringing," said the latter. "Why didn't you come?" "You kept on so long," said the maid. "I thought it was only the telephone."

PALATINE PLAYS HERE SATURDAY

Local High School Footballers Are Practicing Hard for Second Victory

LOST WAUCONDA GAME

The second home game of the season is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, at 2:30, when the Palatine high school team invades Antioch. The game will be played on the high school grounds.

The team will line up practically the same as it did when they defeated Libertyville two weeks ago. The boys have been practicing hard this week and will try to keep a clean slate on the home grounds.

It is expected a large turnout of fans will be on hand to root for a second victory. The cold weather of two weeks ago kept many away.

Last Saturday's game at Wauconda was lost by a 37 to 7 score. Antioch's team was greatly weakened by the absence of fullback Ames and the removal from the game of Captain Haley by injuries. Wauconda displayed wonderful interference which netted big gains on sweeping end runs.

Palatine defeated Wheaton by a 12 to 0 score last Saturday, and indications point to a good, close game. The following Saturday the strong Kenosha high school team comes to Antioch.

Some Rulings on the State Game Laws

If you are not certain about the bag limits and other regulations governing the hunting of water fowl in Illinois, you better tuck this information in your hunting coat before you go after ducks.

According to the Illinois law you may shoot in one day fifteen coots or mudhens, fifteen ducks, eight geese and eight brant, which is a pretty good bag for any hunter. You can have in your possession during the season sixty coots, sixty ducks, ten geese, and ten brant.

Here is dope on blinds: It is against the law to hunt waterfowl from any fixed artificial ambush located beyond the line of natural covering of reeds, canes, flags, crooked brush, wild rice, or other vegetation above the open water of any lake, river, bayou, or inlet or any other water course in Illinois.

Hunting from an electric, gas or steam launch is prohibited. Leave your hydroplane at home, too, as you can't hunt from it. The use of sneak-boats, sinkboxes, or other devices for concealment are also taboo.

Tag Day Monday for Lake Bluff Orphanage

Last Monday's tag day for the Lake Bluff orphanage netted $21.62 in Antioch. The tagging was in charge of the Epworth League of the Methodist church and Mrs. Wilson McGee and Miss Mable Van Deusen acted as taggers.

Clocks and watches will be set back an hour and suburban time schedules will be revamped to dove-tail with winter time.

Joe Turner has severed his connection with the Nestle Food company here and taken a position with the plant at East Troy, Wis. Ray Pester, who has been of late, employed by Armours in Chicago, will take the position at the Nestles office. A reduction in wages is the reason for Mr. Turner's resignation. Joe was the oldest employee in the factory here, taking charge of the office when the factory was first started up by the Wisconsin Condensed Milk company—Grayslake Times.

Take a wide mouthed bottle of good clear glass and fill it with fresh water. Then put into it two teaspoonsful of finely powdered alum. In fair weather and when it is likely to continue fair, the liquid will be clear, but at the approach of cloudy or rainy weather, the mixture will become feathery looking. This barometer will indicate a change of weather 36 hours in advance.

Location in Waukegan of two units of National Guards, a company of howitzers and one company of infantry, have been authorized, and the location of the regimental band practically assured. The outlook for reaching the $10,000 goal set for the Salvation Army drive in Lake county was more favorable and the leaders of the campaign are hopeful that the quota will be attained by Saturday night of this week.

The Gurnee W. C. T. U. interceded with Judge Persons in county court last week in behalf of a moonshiner. Can you beat that! Kaaper Ott, a farmer of Gurnee, had been taken in a raid and two large stills and a quantity of corn mash were found on his place. Then it was that the local temperance society asked State's Attorney Smith to turn the defendant free because his large family was dependent upon him for support.

An indictment against Frank Martin, saloon keeper at Silverlake, Wis., was brought about last week on a first count that he set up and maintained tables and cards for gambling purposes and that he enticed and allowed Tom Goggin, of Antioch, and one Wolf, whose christian name is unknown, and other persons to play for gain. The second count charges that Frank Martin made a wager of $10 on September 17, 1920, with Goggin and Wolf at a game of chance.

Martin was placed under bonds last Thursday before Court Commissioner A. E. Buckmaster, and bonds were duly furnished.

GUNMEN AT AREA STRIKE ARRESTED

Five alleged gunmen from Chicago were brought to Area early this week to guard the twenty non-union carpenters who were put to work there, and two of the quintette were placed under arrest at Libertyville on charges of carrying weapons.

It is charged that the five men were sent out by the contractors to prevent the non-union carpenters from being molested by union men all of whom are out on strike in addition to laborers, steamfitters and others who walked out when the non-union men showed up for work.

The two men under arrest were taken into custody by Marshal Dietz, of Area, Deputy Sheriff Dennis Limberry and special policeman John Lester, both of Libertyville. When the officers arrived the other three men were searched but had no weapons and therefore were not arrested.

This is the second strike that has taken place within a few weeks. Recently the carpenters went out because they refused to accept the Landis scale of wages. Thompson-Starr, the contractors sought to continue the work by employing non-union carpenters, but the quitting of the other tradesmen will put the job in such shape that the non-union carpenters will be unable to proceed.

A steamfitter and plumber were on the job but were not doing any work except watching the tools.

Howard Kappler and Al. Horner, the two men carrying concealed weapons were fined $25 each by Justice E. D. Hubbard of Libertyville Tuesday and ordered back to Chicago.

Gasoline up a Cent

Directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana last week voted to increase the price of gasoline one cent a gallon, making the tank wagon price 18 cents and the service station charge 10 cents. The new prices are effective now. Last week Standard Oil of Indiana increased the price of kerosene one cent a gallon to 9 1/2 cents through out the company's territory.

E. M. RUNYARD IS TO DEFEND GOV. SMALL

Will Act As Assistant Counsel in Most Important Case Ever Held in County

JURY TO BE PICKED SOON

Eugene M. Runyard has been selected as local counsel for Gov. Small in his coming trial at Waukegan.

"Gene" is an Antioch boy and at present is the village attorney. This appointment, coming shortly after his appointment as master in chancery, is another big feather in the cap of our local attorney and there is no doubt that the well wishes of the entire township will be with our native son and attorney in his next big task.

"Gene" was born on his father's farm two miles north of Antioch, attended the district school, later attending a preparatory school and college. After teaching at the Channel Lake school for a short period he left that position to attend a law school at the University of Wisconsin. After his admittance to the bar "Gene" opened offices in Waukegan.

His part in the coming Small trial will be followed closely by the entire township and his success will be greeted by his many friends.

Board of Review Finishes Work on Assessment

The board of review of Lake county has finished its work in assessing property. The total amount being $38,629,140, or $524 for every man, woman and child.

Automobiles listed for taxation, totaled $4,599, which represents one car for each 15 persons. Figuring five to a family these represent that one-third of the families have an automobile, a record that probably cannot be duplicated in any other county in the state. There are only 364 more autos than carriages and wagons.

A large percentage of people still shun banks as money not in banks totals, $1,343,942, while that "in banks" is only $44,630.

Due to the rapid decline in the price of farm produce, the assessed value of grain of all kinds is only $97,430. The total valuations are returned this year are $128,560 less than the total assessed value on county property for last year as returned by the board of review. The assessors returns this year were lower because of the increase last year, which was knocked out, but even though the board this year raised the figures $64,645 over the assessor's figures, the depreciation in the value of all kinds of merchandise, stocks, bonds, personal property, live stock, etc., the valuation is $128,560 lower. The total valuations as returned by the board do not include railroad, telegraph and telephone and other property assessed by the state tax commission.

The expenses of the board this year were $465 less than a year ago. The board consists of Ray Paddock, Wauconda, chairman; A. G. Maether, Prairie View; David White, Grayslake and Robert S. Pearsall, clerk, and Miss Marion Persons, assistant clerk.

Removing Iron Rust From Glass

Dr. Roy Cross of the Kansas City testing laboratory supplies the following method of removing iron rust from glass: Thoroughly soak the spot with equal parts of hydrochloric or muriatic acid and water. Follow this treatment with a hot saturated solution of oxalic acid. The rust stains should then wash off with water without any trouble.

Wanted to Know

A wealthy Irish farmer, intending to send his son to college wrote a letter to the "Head Master of Oxford University," in which he said: "Please say what are your terms for a year; and will it cost anything extra if my son learns to write a good hand and spell proper, as well as to row a boat?"—Weekly Telegraph.

Sure Relief

The Ruling Passion.
A number of darkies were unloading a boat with a cargo of anvils, for which they received 2 cents for each anvil carried ashore.

Jose—Cap'n, if I carry two anvils at a time, how much do I get?

Captain—Two cents each, boy.

As Jose started down the plank, it broke, and he fell into the river with the two heavy anvils. When he came to the surface he cried: "Captain, if you all don't throw me a rope I'll swim 'till I drop these here anvils an' lose mah 'fo' cents!"—Judge.

Knocking the Doctors.
There is an official in Washington who likes nothing better than a fling at the medical profession. He was afforded an opportunity not long ago at a public dinner to chaff the medicals and he did it in this wise:

"Physicians may be divided into two classes—the radicals, who kill you, and the conservatives, who let you die."

Workingmen's Carelessness.
Of all the accidents to workmen which occurred in the plants of the United States Steel corporation, only about 5 per cent were due to machinery causes. The others came under the head of hand labor, and it is claimed that half of these might have been prevented by the exercise of a little care by the workmen. In analyzing the causes of any group of 100 accidents it has been found that 90 per cent of them might have been prevented by the victims themselves.

MARIE GESSLER.

Synopsis.—In a New York jewelry store Philip Severn, United States consular agent, notices a small box which attracts him. He purchases it. Later he discovers in a secret compartment a writing giving a clue to a revolutionary movement in this country seeking to overthrow the Chilean government. The writing mentions a rendezvous, and Severn decides to investigate. Finding the place mentioned in the writing apparently deserted, Severn visits a saloon in the vicinity. A woman in the place is met by a man, seemingly by appointment, and Severn, his suspicions aroused, follows them. They go to the designated meeting place, an abandoned iron foundry. At the rendezvous Severn is accepted as one of the conspirators and admitted. He meets a stranger who addresses him as Harry Daly. The incident plays into Severn's hands and he accepts it. His new acquaintance is a notorious thief, "Gentleman George" Harris. Concealed, Severn hears the girl he had followed address the conspirators. She urges them to hasten the work of the revolution. The girl discovers Severn listening. She accepts his explanation of his presence and makes an appointment to meet him next day. He tells her his name is Daly. Harris informs him of a scheme he has to secure a sum amounting to $1,000,000, the revolutionary fund, and offers to "split" with him. Severn accepts the proposition. Severn learns the name of the new friend and a "Captain Alva" who had lost the box which started him on the trail.

"And then, of course, you hunted up Alva?"

"The next morning, before any hank opened, I thought over it all night and got up a peach of a story. I needed it, too, for this Alva was a smooth guy. It took some nerve to get him, but I knew, through Horner's memorandum, some things about him he never supposed was known up in this country; so when I sprung them, natural-like, he quit being offish, and gave me the glad hand."

"Who is he? A crank?"

"Not by a d-d sight. He's a captain in the Chilean army, military attaché to the embassy at Washington, intrusted with certain work. But he's really working to overthrow the present Chilean government—getting up a revolution down there. I lied until I was black in the face, but I must have kept within bounds, for he got to liking me real well. He was a high-roller, and I put him onto some things in New York, he had never been steered against before. That made a hit with him. There wasn't nothing said about cashing up all day long, and early the next morning we breezed into a downtown hotel, and went to bed."

"What hotel?"

"Search me. We'd been tanking up on champagne and were drunker in the morning than when we turned in. That's the honest truth. All either of us wanted for breakfast was a cup of coffee. We got that at a little dumpy on some side street, so as to brace up a little." He paused to laugh at the recollection, helping himself to a third cigar.

"And you actually retain no knowledge of where you spent the night?"

"Not the faintest glimmer. Can you beat it? Alva lost part of a letter somewhere, and a curious sort of box he had picked up in Chinatown. He put them both in his pocket, so he says, but that was the last he ever saw of either. Queer looking box that was; nothing I cared about, but it cost the guy a hundred bucks, and he was duffy over it. Anyhow, that night put me solid with Alva."

"But the money? He's never drawn it?"

"Not a dinky red. He claims the time hasn't come yet, and that it's safer with Krantz. But I've stuck to him like a brother and he's took me in with his gang, so now I know every move that's going on. I'm on the inside, all right, and now it's beginning to get hot."

"They are ready to act?"

"Sure; that's what the meeting was about tonight."

"What are they after—ships?"

"Well, they've got to have some, but mostly arms; then there is a guy down there who's got to be crooked. I don't care what it is; when the time comes they want a handful of change to get with. I'm some patriot, I am, and I put a bigger crimp in their sails than the whole United States government secret service."

"But see here, Harris," soberly, "how do you know you are going to get this? Of course, I see the game the way you've mapped it out, but suppose Krantz pays in check, or drafts. That spikes your gun."

"I—I, yes; but he won't. I've sized up this man Krantz. He's in the game for money. He don't care who wins the d-d revolution, for he gets his share out of the pot right away. He's playing the game secretly on his own account. Get that? He expects it may be a year, or perhaps two, before he can cash in on the deal, but when it does come his share of profit will be likely a hundred thousand. That beats bank interest, and the old bird is willing to take the chance."

"Quite likely that's true; no bank would finance such a project."

"Of course not—the directors would throw a fit. Well, now, that kind of a guy, in on a raw deal like this, is going to play safe, isn't he? He isn't going to leave any evidence lying around to hang himself with—no drafts, or checks to pass through the clearing house? Not on your life; he is too wily a fox for that. Krantz knew this was coming, and he's been cashing in for six months or more to be ready for it. And now he's got the currency stored away, nobody knows where but himself. When Alva comes for it it will be handed out secretly, and that old bird will crumple up the receipt in his pocket and wait till he can cash in through those guys in London. So now it's up to us to locate the dough; we've got to separate it from either Krantz, or Alva—I'm for Alva."

"Why?"

"Because the job looks easier. He's human and no money grubber. He's just as liable as not to carry the whole deal around with him; d-d it. I think that's just what he'll do, for he won't dare deposit such a sum anywhere. That's why I have laid back so long, without attempting to strike—I'm banking on the army captain to offer me a soft thing. What do you say?"

I had the whole story now in a nutshell and it was one to think over. That Harris had played his cards well was sufficiently evident. Now I must be fully as cautious in playing mine. I felt the fellow had given me his full confidence; actually believing me to be Daly, and on the same trail with him; desiring to use me to what was probably the biggest job of his life, he had been led into the indiscretion of confiding to me the full truth of his scheme. If I kept my head and nerve, I had it in my power to block everything and thus bring the whole gang to swift justice. I realized the danger of such an attempt, the immediate peril of endeavoring to accomplish this alone, yet at the moment I perceived no other way. I must remain Daly and appear eager to obtain my share of the spoils.

"A little piece of work, Harris," I admitted admiringly, "and so far as I can judge you have figured out the chances about right. They look good. I'm with you, old man—shake it!"

"Our hands clasped. That is what I thought you would say, Harry," more familiarly. "Come on now and drink with me."

I put the stuff down, rather feeling the need of it, and desiring to establish our intimacy more closely.

"Then that's settled, George—yes, I'll have another cigar. By the way," as I lit up, "there was another thing I wanted to ask you about. You said there was a woman here from Washington. What's the idea?"

"D-d if I know, but I guess it's all right. Still I don't quite cotton to the dame. This is how I got it from Alva. Those junta fellows—the big ones, you know—think this New York bunch is pretty slow; they want some action for their money. So Señor Mendez, who seems to be engineering the deal, decides to send somebody over here to stir up the criminals. But he's watched every minute; secret service men are as thick as flies, and if one of his underlings was to leave for New York, he'd never get ten feet without being spotted. Mendez is wise to this, so he gathers in privately a skirt he believes is all right, and sends her. It's not a decent job for a woman, and that's what makes it safe. He made a good guess, too; that female is as smart as a steel trap. She gave me the cold shivers."

"You don't think she suspects you?"

"No, I don't; there ain't no reason why she should; but she gave me the once over, all right, and I am perfectly willing to know she is on her way back to Washington. I never did play in any luck with a woman in the game—perhaps that's what makes me afraid of 'em."

"What's her name?"

"Gessler, so Alva said—Marie Gessler; South American, I suppose; anyhow, she talked that language like a native. I steered clear of her most of the time. Somehow she got my goat. However, that's nothing to worry over." He glanced at his watch. "The dame's safely off by this time. What do you say—let's go home."

I signified my willingness.

As we passed out together through the narrow passage, extinguishing the lights behind us, the one overpowering desire in my mind was to be once more alone, so as to think over, and piece together as best I might this fabric of villainy with which I was confronted. The situation was fairly clear, yet there were strange lights and shadows in it I found hard to reconcile. Moreover, what should I do? How could I serve best—by immediately telling my story to the officers of the law, and thus washing my hands clean? or by continuing to enact the role of Harry Daly, and in this way entrapping these fellows red-handed? I had had fully enough of Harris for the present. His boastfulness and pride of crime disgusted me. I had no desire to be associated with the fellow, or pretend, even for a worthy purpose, to be his companion. Yet all this had happened so suddenly and unexpectedly I could not determine the best course to pursue. I remained dazed and confused, the only clear decision being an eagerness to bring him, and these others also, to justice.

We were the last to leave the place, and emerged from the building into the deserted yard, leaving all in silence and darkness behind us. The door closed tightly, secured by a night-latch, and we stood motionless in the drizzle. By that time I was ready with a suggestion, but by good fortune he took the initiative.

"We better slip out of here alone, I reckon," he whispered. "I'll go up this way, and then you take a sneak through the lumber yard. Likely we'll catch the same car going down. If we don't, look me up at Costigan's place—you know where that is?"

"Sixth avenue, isn't it?"

"Sure. Ask for Parker, and it will be all right. If I ain't to leave a note where I can hunt you up, I got to keep my eye on Alva tomorrow, so he don't get away with the stuff."

"You expect him to draw?"

"Not before night; but, just the same, I want to know for sure. You wait here five minutes, for I've got the longest trip to make. You'll show up all right?"

"You can't lose me; it looks too good."

He chuckled and patted me on the shoulder in an excess of friendliness, evidently feeling to some extent the whisky he had been imbibing so freely.

"That's the talk, Daly. Well, so long."

He slipped out through the gate into the dark of the alley, leaving it slightly ajar for me to follow. I sheltered myself behind the high board fence and listened to the soft splash of his feet in the mud. The sound vanished, and all about was silence and darkness. I waited only long enough to be sure he was safely out of the way, and then followed, eager to be off. One thing was certain, I would make no effort to join him on the car; I would use the remainder of the night to decide the future, working out the problem alone.

To make certain that I avoided any possibility of encountering the fellow again, I passed directly through the deserted lumber yard before emerging upon Gans street. This thoroughfare was at this hour desolate enough, not a light showing in the houses, or a moving figure visible as far as I could see in the dimness of the street lamps. The rain was steady, the pavement shimmering with moisture, the only sound the pattering of the drops as they fell. If any policeman were abroad I saw no signs, and with color turned up to my ears, I chose to walk rather than seek the block to the east and the possibility of a street car.

The factory district ended in a row of houses, dark and silent at this hour, but the walking was good, and I pushed forward briskly, so buried in thought as to become practically insensible to the unpleasant surroundings.

The night had been a full one, far exceeding my expectations, yet left me more puzzled than ever as to my own duty. So far I knew of no act of crime with which these men could be connected; they were merely proposing a future attack on a neutral government. If, however, I consented to play my part with Harris, I would not only be in ample time to circumvent any danger Alva and his gang might contemplate, but also gain ample evidence for their conviction and expulsion from this country.

In addition to this I would be in position to block the daring plans of this international thief. Altogether it seemed to me that the wiser course for me to pursue was to wait, and watch ready to act at any moment, but keeping my own counsel until certain that the specific moment had arrived.

Nor was I oblivious to the strange impression left upon me by my encounter with Marie Gessler. She had interested me oddly, and I could not drive her memory from my thoughts. Our moment of conversation had been peculiar, and her words and actions remained as a constraint. Why had she stood there, her hand on the door, and talked to me in that mocking way? Had she a purpose, an aim? Did she believe my explanation, or was her suspicion aroused into a determination to verify it in some way? Although I could not decide, yet doubtless the latter theory was the most probable. What was why I had been pledged to call at "247 Le Comptoir street," and ask for "Miss Conrad?"

This was the same place where Harris had secretly met Krantz. Evidently it was another headquarters for these precious villains. Once there, and safely in their power, the truth of my identity could easily be established. Was that her idea?

MARKS CENTER OF THE EARTH

Lofty Monument in Delhi, India, Erected After a Meteorite Fell Near the Spot.

The idea that the earth is not a flat disk, but a globe, does not seem to have "caught on" in India, for they still talk about a certain place being the "center of the world."

In Delhi stands a lofty monument that goes by name of Kutub Minor, a structure towering high above the temple of which it is a part.

The appearance of this curious piece of architecture is that of a number of tiers of columns, seemingly tied together in bundles. At high intervals there are balconies.

The Kutub Minor is of special interest and note in the world over which the religion of the tender Doodhah holds sway. Here, long ago, tradition has it a meteorite fell, sent by the ruling powers in the mystic world beyond this life to mark in the exact center of the world.

In commemoration of this miraculous event the Kutub Minor was erected on the spot, that mankind might never forget it.—London Answers.

BARBERS' NAMES ON MIRROR

New York Proprietor Thinks Patrons Should Know Who Is Operating on Them.

The proprietor of a barber shop in New York believes it is a good thing for his business to have his patrons call each barber by name. To this end he has had one of his 15 employees who is handy at lettering scroll the first name of each barber in soap on the mirror in front of each chair.

When a patron enters he sees a row of names—"Tom," "Adam," "Anthony," "Ito," "James,"—on either side of the mirrored shop. Below each name is an arrow and a number.

"It's like branding cattle," one barber remarked. "I am Sid and each morning I back into stall No. 2. The boss insists it is a good idea. Makes the shop more homelike, he says."—New York Sun.

850 DISASTER DEATH TOLL FOR ONE YEAR

Red Cross Gives $1,871,000 Relief When 65,000 Families Are Made Homeless.

Forty-three disasters, resulting in the death in the United States of 850 persons and the injury of 2,500 called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,871,000 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, says an announcement based upon the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. These disasters caused property damage estimated at $30,000,000, affected sixty-seven communities and rendered 65,000 families homeless.

The year's disasters were of varying types, including several which previously had never been thought of as falling within that classification. The Red Cross furnished relief in seventeen fires of magnitude, five floods, seven tornadoes or cyclones, one devastating storm, three explosions including the one in Wall Street, one building accident, two typhoid epidemics, the most serious being that at Salem, Ohio, which affected 3 per cent of the population, one smallpox epidemic, in the republic of Haiti, one train wreck, the race riot at Tulsa, Okla.; the famine in China, emergency relief in famine among the Indians of Alaska, the grasshopper plague in North Dakota and an earthquake in Italy.

Pueblo Most Serious

By far the most severe of the disasters in the United States during the period covered by the Red Cross report was the Pueblo flood early in June, 1921. The rehabilitation problem confronting the Red Cross in Pueblo was one of the most difficult in recent years. When the first news of the horror was flashed throughout the country, the American Red Cross National Headquarters responded with a grant of $185,000 for relief work. Governor Shoup of Colorado, appreciating the long and successful experience of the Red Cross in organizing disaster relief work, placed the entire responsibility for the administration of relief in its hands.

In response to appeals from President Harding, Governor Shoup and other governors of western states and through local chapters of the Red Cross and other community organizations, public-spirited citizens brought the total contributed for Pueblo's rehabilitation to more than $325,000. The terrible havoc wrought by the flood waters is a matter of record. More than 2,300 homes were affected and 7,351 persons were left homeless. Estimates of $700,000 as an absolute minimum for rehabilitation were made by Red Cross officials in charge of the relief work.

Fast Work in Wall Street

The Wall Street explosion was notable in that relief workers of the Red Cross were on the scene twenty minutes after the disaster occurred. The race riot at Tulsa also was unique in disaster relief annals in that outside of a small emergency relief fund contributed by the Red Cross, the only relief measures outside the city consisted of the service of social workers, nurses and a trained executive whose object was to assist local forces in directing their own efforts.

In decided contrast with the previous year, only one tornado assumed the proportions of a major disaster. This occurred on April 15, in the border sections of Texas and Arkansas with the city of Texarkana as the center. The significant feature of this disaster relief work was the fact that it covered so much rural territory as to make necessary a large number of relief workers.

The famine in China, necessitating relief expenditures totaling more than $1,000,000 by the American Red Cross was by far the most serious of the foreign disasters in which the Red Cross gave aid.

Builds Up Its Machinery

In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 328 chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 3,402 active chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread removal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 21.

LIFE SAVING CORPS. ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 100 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,270 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

TEMPORARY SHEEP PASTURES

Results of Experiment Made by Department of Agriculture on 30-Acre Field in Maryland.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

On a 30-acre field in Maryland, used by the United States Department of Agriculture to test the carrying capacity of temporary pastures for sheep, sufficient pasturage was produced to furnish an average of 505 days' grazing on each acre for a mature ewe. This is equivalent to about two sheep an acre for a season of 250 days, or two and one-half sheep for a 200-day period.

This pasturage is much more than could be obtained from perennial grass grown on land of the character and value of that used in the experiment, the department sheep specialists say, but not more than can be obtained from the best blue-grass pastures. Good land used for such a succession of temporary pastures should produce from 50 to 100 per cent more pasturage.

Lambs on Pasture in Maryland.

In such a system as the one under trial there is not much choice of crops to be used in different months. It is chiefly necessary to make sure of having one crop ready when the preceding one is finished. All the crops used in 1919, the third year of the experiment, stimulated a good flow of milk in the ewes, produced good growth in the lambs and, after weaning, put the ewes in good condition for fall breeding.

The ewes and lambs were all purebred Southdowns. Some of the ewes raising lambs received a half-pound of grain each daily until May 10, and 22 head of ewes in a fall-breeding experiment received a light feed of grain during September and October. All the lambs were kept for breeding purposes and were fed some grain throughout the summer. In calculating how far the feed actually produced would go for grown sheep it was considered that a lamb ate one-fourth as much as a sheep until July 1, and after that one-half as much. A total of 520 hours' work for a man and a team was required for plowing and seeding the 30 acres used in 1919.

Under the conditions of this experiment fall-sown wheat and spring seedlings of oats and peas sown together at the rate of 1½ bushels per acre have been most satisfactory for grazing in spring and early summer. Soy beans are ready for grazing about the middle of July and furnish most of the feed until October. In November fall-sown wheat and rye have been used most, though late seedlings of corn and velvet beans were used in 1919 for the first time on 1½ acres that had received an extra top dressing of manure.

The number of days of grazing from one acre of each crop in 1919 was as follows, calculated on its pasture value for one mature ewe:

	Days.		Days.
Rape	252	Cowpeas	210
Soy beans	313	Alfalfa	82
Oats and peas	313	Barley	29
Wheat	309	Rye	189

TRAINED WORKERS

WATCH FOR MISSING

Salvation Army Bureau Last Year Restored 548 Persons to Anxious Relatives.

The Salvation Army is said to be the most extensive detective bureau in existence—operating in over 7,000 cities. Trained workers keep a vigilant watch for those who have disappeared throughout the United States. This service extends to the outposts of civilization in India or Africa.

By means of a more extended organization working through county advisory boards, 548 missing persons were restored to their homes and friends last year.

The activities of the local advisory boards has resulted in greater economy and efficiency in the administration of Salvation Army affairs as the figures testify regarding the lost.

Numerous inquiries for the missing are made every day in Illinois. Many families were reunited and persons found in this state last year.

The Salvation Army is asking Illinois to contribute to its home service appeal, October 24 to 31, with which to carry on and extend this branch of work together with the 15 other major activities.

NEW YORK HAS

UNIQUE HAT SHOP.

Some women's hats never go out of style.

In New York city there is a millinery shop which makes every style with positive guarantee that its bonnet will be just as attractive, just as admired and even more in vogue five or ten years from now.

The place is the Salvation Army "Millinery Shop," where the famous "Blue Bonnets" of Salvation Army girls are made.

Three hundred bonnets each week are trimmed, boxed, sent to all parts of the country and started on their mission of spreading cheer and hope in every corner of the United States.

Shaped like nothing else under the sun, the familiar Blue Bonnet is a symbol of unselfish service in nurseries, hospitals and tenements everywhere.

The Salvation Army is asking Illinois to contribute to its home service appeal, October 24 to 31, for the purpose of keeping its "bonnet weaver" on the job and to extend the army service in the state.

Trees Strong.

Trees and plants display a wonderful strength at times. Some of them will lift a heavy stone which blocks their way or even split a rock. But there is one thing which they can not withstand and that is the stranglehold of another plant which encircles them. A honeysuckle will soon kill a tree which it takes hold of and in the tropical forests there are many creepers which kill the trees they climb and save themselves by reaching out to neighboring trees.

Crystal Theatre to Run Thrilling Serial

Starting next Wednesday the Crystal theatre will run a serial picture featuring Art Acord. It is probably the most thrilling serial ever produced, entitled "Winners of the West."

ART ACORD
"WINNERS OF THE WEST"

Each Wednesday several chapters will be shown.

You'll feel your blood kindle into a blaze of excitement that will hold you gasping when you see the Indian attacks, prairie fires, grizzly fights, land-slides, blazing arrows, the gold rush, the painted desert, wonderful rescues and a thousand and one great, gripping thrills.

Next Wednesday children will be admitted for 10 cents.

Hardly Realistic.

Ellen Terry tells the following amusing story: "Once, when she was acting in 'Madame Sans-Gene,' a cat stole on the stage and rubbed itself against her. To introduce a realistic 'touch,' she picked it up and set it down a foot or two away, telling it to go to sleep. The cat curled up and went to sleep. But a murmuring in the audience drew Ellen Terry's attention to the animal again. The cat was sleeping peacefully on a red-hot 'fire.'"

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totalling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and services in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $5,000,000 lower than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $24,402,741. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. If the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,680,258 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This appropriation represents the amount allotted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veteran. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $3,000,000, of which $2,692,601 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Yaps Work for Disabled
Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in government hospitals. This item of $1,709,600, an increase of more than $400,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide those personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans' Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $461,630 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $13,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,000 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

Helping Destitute Children
Other items of the domestic budget include $498,546 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $768,000 for management. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

Yellow Fever Wiped Out.
Yellow fever has been completely eliminated from Guayaquil, Ecuador, where it has been prevalent for generations. In 1912 half the population of the city died of this disease, and there were from 200 to 500 cases every year until the campaign of extermination was begun in 1918.

Why do people trade at the mail order houses and so-called chain stores? It isn't because the service is better than your local merchant gives you, because it's not.

It isn't because the mail order and chain stores furnish you with fresh fruits and vegetables which are perishable, as they leave this to your local merchant, who must often take a loss on these with a smile.

It must be because they think they can buy so much cheaper than they can from the dealer at home who is always ready to trust if you find you haven't the change in your pocket—something that cannot be done at either of the above. You are confronted with a few leaders or possibly with a brand of goods where the label stands for cheapness instead of quality, because if you buy an item for eight cents when the same item put up under competitive circumstances sells for eighteen or twenty cents universally, it stands to reason that the quality of an article sold so cheap must be doubtful. Your local dealer could carry such line of goods, but would not be disgraced with them.

When it comes to quantity, I will make you a price on any item in the house and give you 25 lbs. of sugar for $1.00 with every $10.00 order; bread, butter, eggs, fruits and vegetables not included.

Dante's Beautiful Imagery.
Dante believed that when Lucifer was cast out from heaven he made a deep pit as he fell in one side of the Earth (the pit of Hell, or the Inferno), and on the other side a corresponding projection, the Hill of Purgatory. The poet's description of his arrival at the foot of this hill, after his long sojourn in the dark regions of Hell, is one of the most beautiful things in literature.

MODERN BUILDING FOR DAIRY HERD

Proper Housing of Animals Nec-

BARN WELL CONSTRUCTED

Has Thirty Steel Stalls for Cows and Large Open Feeding Room—Modern Labor-Saving Devices Are Employed.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm. For the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects.
Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

There was a time not so long back when the only crops raised in the states south of the Mason and Dixon line were cotton and tobacco. If these failed or the weevil got in its deadly work the farmer was out of luck.
Moreover this constant repetition of the same crop used up the fertility of the soil and within a few years it was abandoned.

Shadily in the great country be-leaving the herd to a neighboring trough.

These two rows of cow stalls face a central feeding alley over which runs a carrier truck. The feed can be carried on carriers from the feedroom and given to the stock in their stalls without any back-breaking efforts on the part of the hired men. At the rear of each row of stalls is a litter alley also equipped with carrier tracks. Aside from the advantages which this modern stall equipment offers the cows, it is important from the standpoint of the help. It reduces immeasurably the drudgery around stock barns and helps in large measure to keep the boys contented. They have been leaving farms because of the unnecessary heavy work. Proper barn equipment will help to stem this exodus to the cities.

The floor is concrete while the stalls are wood block or cork brick.
The animals cannot rest easily and comfortably on the solid floor, requiring a more resilient material. Lately asphalt mastic has been used for this purpose.

In the wing which extends across one end of the barn the various feed-rooms and racks are located. An unusual feature of this barn is the large open feedroom with racks where loose cattle may roam and feed at will.
These racks are set out in the middle of the floor and cattle can eat from either side. At the rear end of the wing are the regular feed bins and feedroom, 20 by 22 feet, where the various rations are prepared and hauled by carrier to the racks or stalls.
Plenty of windows around the barn provide an abundance of sunlight and air. The barn doors are all hung on a bolt of lightning and some electri-yond the Mississippi what was the one and only crop. As in the case of the Southern farmers, these people suffered in case the crop failed.

But a change has been wrought in farming in both of these sections.
Farmers by bitter experience have learned that it is not safe to rely able to depend upon a single crop and consequently are going in for the diversified farming, and most important of all they are all tilling in dairy work. They have fought hard to start with and are gradually building up a real dairy business.

For they know that a good herd will not fail them year in and year out. The dairy department of the modern farm is the most important because it is a source of all year round revenue.

To make the herd as productive and as efficient as possible and increase this revenue, the farmer must direct his energy and thought in any better direction than that of building a barn that will house a few animals in a comfortable but not a profitable way.

There are several important features in the construction of a dairy barn that should be considered from the start. First, the barn should be located in a high, dry place, and the ground should be well drained. The barn should be built on a high, dry spot, and the ground should be well drained. The barn should be built on a high, dry spot, and the ground should be well drained.

In the barn shown here with floor plans these two salient features have not been overlooked. This is easily seen by the ventilation in the roof and the air intake along the sides of the barn. This handsome and complete structure is 96 feet long and 72 feet wide with a wing 72 by 20 feet.

It is built of frame on a stout concrete foundation. The roof is covered slanted insuring plenty of room for a hay loft. In the main section of the barn are the cow stalls 20 in number. These stalls are of the most modern design, the stanchions being fixed and so made as to be sanitary and humane, yet strong. In front of each stall is an individual drink water, providing a steady supply of fresh water for the cows. Like air, water is essential to good and plentiful milk production. The cup not only provides this but eliminates much of the heavy work entailed by the old system of easy-telling dangers of the latest design.

This is the type of barn that should be built by the farmer who hopes to make the most from his herd of cattle. It is fully built a make-shift structure. Build a real barn large enough to anticipate and handle your future needs, strong enough to last, and so designed as to insure your cattle plenty of life-giving sunshine and fresh air, and equipped so as to keep the animals comfortable. Then you can rest assured that the animals will do their share.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE TUB

Laundresses Have Legends, Which in Many Countries Are Taken With Great Circumference.

Universally we observe when we see anyone who washes a sheet or pillow is washing for a wedding sheet, and death will come when the year is out that to wash on Friday is to wash your husband's death. The superstitions that are connected with washing on Good Friday have naturally attracted the attention of the laundress in all ages and in all countries. The laundress is a woman who is a woman in the face of a woman and a woman in the face of a woman.

If a laundress drops her soap on the left side she will be asked to a wedding. If she splashes water on her right side she will marry a drunkard.
If a man's shirt is put in the tub upside down—accidentally, of course—it means the coming death to the owner. There is good fortune in store for any one who in a washerwoman carrying a basket of freshly laundered clothes, but had just overtaken the one who carries a basket filled with the unwashed.

No Real Cause for Alarm.

Einstein's theory that space may not be of infinite extent seems to have obtained endorsement by many contemporary physicists. Nevertheless it would not appear that if this idea be accepted, the cosmos is to be regarded as alarmingly shrank. For Einstein's own opinion is that a ray of light traveling 18,000 miles a second would require a billion years to make a complete circuit of its outer hull.

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it, but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

Shingles for Trees.

The coniferous trees present much the same aspect in winter as in summer, says the American Forestry Magazine. The arrangement of the buds and branches of these trees is what we should note. Buds form in the axils of leaves and so their arrangement is the same as that of the leaves. Trees have a definite plan in the placing of the leaves—just as definite as the carpenter's plan in arranging the shingles on a house. The shingles are placed so they will catch all the rain. Leaves are placed so they will catch the sunbeams.

RAILROADS DEFY LABOR UNIONS

Erle and Rock Island Order New Slashes in Workers' Pay.

REPORT OF FRICTION DENIED

Big Four Brotherhoods Expect A. F. of L. Unions to Walk Out—African Legion's Plea for a Week's Delay Fails.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Headed by the Erie and Rock Island systems, the railroads opened a wage-cutting campaign in open defiance of the strike threat.

This action came as the first test of union strength at a time when President Harding and others were trying to invert the strike set for October 30.

The Erie order reduces the wages of laborers along the right of way from 37½ cents an hour to 30 cents an hour. As soon as this order was given out the maintenance of way brotherhood officers called a meeting.

Vice President J. L. Smock of the maintenance brotherhood denied reports of friction between the "Big Four" brotherhoods and the other railroad labor organizations.

Following close on the heels of the Erie wage-cut order the Rock Island system slashed the pay of women employed as matrons in the stations. One woman, employed at the Sixty-third street station, said her pay had been cut from $100 a month to less than $70. She said those who were not satisfied were being discharged.

The action of the railroads was said by union officials to have removed all doubt as to whether the other brotherhoods would join the so-called "Big Four" in the strike. The pay cuts instituted were termed by brotherhood officials as inviting the walkout.

"The railroads apparently feel that they can squirm out of this situation and have determined to play 'whole hog or none,'" said one of the union officials. "There is no longer any doubt but that the trainmen, numbering 300,000, will be joined to a man by the 1,500,000 shopmen, maintenance of way men and other workers."

John Grenau, president of the United Association of Rail Employees of North America, said the unions have a strike fund of $2,000,000 and will be able to withstand a strike of any length. He denied reports that his organization will step in and act as strikebreakers.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 10.—"Nothing but a miracle can stop the strike from starting October 20," said W. O. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, when told the American Legion had requested delay for a week to permit them to hold their convention.

"The strike can't be put off," Lee went on. "I have no authority to do so, and no one has, so far as I know. If President Harding calls for a conference of union and railroad heads, I'll be glad to attend, but all our cards are on the table."

Melville Stone, president of the Locomotive Engineers, laughed at the proposal to apply the cut in wages to a decrease in rail rates.

"That's joke No. 1," he said. "By the time the middlemen get through with the wage cut freight rates would not have half of 1 per cent left."

"Leaders of the union will be in constant daily conference until the strike issue is finally settled."

"We have taken this step with our eyes open and the next move is not up to us. As far as possible, however, we will safeguard the rights of the public."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the following statement: "One reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease."

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

WALKOUT HAS BEEN CALLED

Five Hundred Thousand Shopmen to Join Strikers, Declares B. M. Jewell of the A. F. of L.—Trains Will Move, Say Rail Heads.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—A railway wage strike intended to tie up the transportation of the country by November 2 has been called.

The first general walkout will be October 30, on 16 roads operating in 22 states and having a truckage of 73,471 miles. Workers on other lines will be ordered out in three groups, one group each succeeding day.

In Washington President Harding started a series of conferences with members of the public group of the United States railroad labor board and the interstate commerce commission in an effort to avoid the leap.

There will be one walkout next Saturday morning, according to present plans. This will be of the trainmen on the International & Great Northern, a Texas road.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, with a truckage of 10,601 miles, will be in the first group. The other 15 to be hit the first day of the progressive strike are: Chicago & North Western, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific (Atlantic & Pacific lines), Southern railway, Louisville & Nashville, Chicago Great Western, St. Louis Southwestern (whether Texas lines are included not stated), Northern Pacific, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Seaboard Air line and the Virginia railway.

The strike call was sent out from Chicago by the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union. While no official announcement was made, it was stated on good authority that the eleven other rail unions, embracing virtually all classes of railroad employees, will support the movement.

The leap will be absolute within four days, union leaders predicted. The strike call indicates that not even mail trains will be moved.

Samuel M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western, one of the first roads to be affected, said that, in spite of the strike order, many trains will be kept moving.

"What will the roads do when the strike goes into effect?" he was asked.

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it," he replied.

"Will the roads be able to operate after the men walk out?"

"I haven't any doubt of it," Mr. Felton answered, emphatically, "but I don't propose to show my hand now. I can only repeat that we will cross the bridge when we come to it."

"The public had best get its walking shoes on," said B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor. "I don't understand that the train instructions contemplate the operation of a single train."

Whether the railroad shopmen—500,000 strong—will stand back of the four big brotherhoods and walk out of shops and roundhouses, starting October 30, will be decided this week.

B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, said that the date for the meeting had not been set.

The chief leaders are authorized to call a nation-wide strike at any time, by a vote taken some time ago, which was overwhelmingly for a strike as a protest against wage reductions and the elimination of favorable working rules.

The view of officials was that there is but one course open to the shopmen—to follow the brotherhoods.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Given Work Building Roads.

Washington, Oct. 18.—From 300,000 to 350,000 men will be given work building roads during the next six months, according to a survey made by the Department of Agriculture and announced here.

In the most important step yet taken to relieve the unemployment situation it is estimated that under the federal highway bill, funds totaling from $105,000,000 to $200,000,000 will be made available for road construction. This bill, according to the formal statement by the department, will pass congress within the next few days.

GIRL OF TODAY INDEPENDENT

Modern Young Woman Has No Need of Chaperon, Says Kathleen Norris, the Novelist.

"Even in my memory girls never were allowed to enter restaurants without a male escort of their own family or a maid, nor did one dream of the theater unless similarly guarded; on boats and trains the watchful elder woman was never absent. And still, in Latin countries, school-girls are accompanied to and fro with scrupulous care."

"But our young women go their enormously varied and constantly increasing ways in casual freedom and solitude," writes Kathleen Norris in McCall's. "Only a few weeks ago I noticed, in the colossal dining room of a big department store that the bills of fare were actually planned to please the delicate sex."

"Everywhere the world is changing to meet her, as she changes to meet the world, and as it would be palpably absurd to have her traveling downtown in the public cars, enrolling her living in some big office, lunching alone amid a thousand men and then requiring the services of a chaperon for any other occasion—she is beginning to dispense with the chaperon altogether. The present state of affairs would not shock the retiring guardian of maidenly modesty and morals, because she would be simply and utterly unable to grasp it."

An incorrect account of the death of Fred Bewersdorf was published in last week's items. With his brother, Tony, the young man was enroute for Alabama by automobile. At Franklin, Tenn., there is twenty-one miles of the Dixie highway that is owned by a Mr. Johnson and there is a toll gate at Franklin. Mr. Bewersdorf did not realize the meaning of the gate, as he had never seen one before and drove past it. The tender, a man of 75, promptly dropped the gate and it fell over the engine of the Bewersdorf machine. A heavy iron attachment to the gate hit Fred and killed him instantly. Tony, who was sitting beside him was uninjured. Funeral services were held for the young man in Chicago last Tuesday, with burial at Oakwood.
